

Sandwich pneumatic control

The range of pneumatic cab controls includes now the new sandwich version according to the typical German style ensuring easy mounting together with its sturdy construction.

The main unit (*) can control proportionally both Tipping and lowering functions. Several different modules can be coupled to achieve any configurations required to manage single or double acting circuits, with or without automatic return into neutral position.

The reduced overall dimensions in addition to the option to choose between two different versions with side or bottom ports make its fitting nearby the seat just simple and quick.

Each component can be fitted also separately
